Notes by the Way-Side. Mr. Lucius Quintius Curtius Lamar stands up like a little man and condemns the "Hamburg massacre," and in consequence thereof is suffering castigation at the hands of his constituents. This is as it should be. What business has Mr. Lamar to interfere in the harmless sports of the chivalry? Has the white man no rights that "the nigger" is bound to respect? Let us suppose for a moment that a colored militia company was parading the streets of Weymouth, with music playing and banners waving in the breeze. It is met by a drunken, shouting party of our young bloods——If we have any, Heaven save the mark 1—comfortably ensconced in a top bnggy and tearing down the street at break-neck speed, and this mob of bravos obstinately refuse to down the street at break-neck speed, and this mob of bravos obstinately refuse to break their ranks, and with uncovered heads permit the hurrying equipage to dash through. Could our young white bloods do less than to spread the news of the disgusting insult among the order loving citizens of Weymouth, and de-mand in the thunder tones of an enraged populace, the immediate surrender of the arms of that insurrectionary band and populace, the immediate surrender of the arms of that insurrectionary band and the death of its leaders? And should this be denied, would not our citizens be justified in rising in their wrath and opening cannon-fire and musketry upon the desperadoes, and swinging a dozen or more of these fiends in human shape from the eim trees in the square? All the country would bear us out in such practical action and Christendom would ring with praises of our brave and fearshape in the square? All squares and Christendom would ring with praises of our brave and fearless advocacy of the rights of the superior race. And if this were true in our own case, how much the more so, we have also a spleudid BILLIAND HALL open day and evening. No intoricating liquors or Boar are allowed to be sold on that premises.

feet, and bared their cowards backs of the light love-pats of the infantile whip. Can these things be, and overcome us like a summer cloud?" It is clearly evident that reform is needed, and if the white man has rights he must rise in his wisht and dare maintain them. 'Rah for might and dare maintain them. 'Rah for Mr. Wendell Phillips has been scolding again about something he knows nothing about. This time it is about the "Custer Massacre," which he is not willing to admit is a massacre at all. He considers Gen. Custer a human monster, considers Gen. Custer a human monster, who has been in the habit of breakfastlng on squaw-on-toast; dining upon Indian brave a la mode, and lunching on tender pappoose, washed down with Chateaux Yequiem. Hanging was too good for him, and the manner of his taking off meets with his entire approbation.

FUNERALS. Certains Certains Cannot any have a large may be set up in a moing off meets with his entire approbation. Then he denounces the army in the aggregate; scolds Gen. Sherman for having anything to do with it, and winds up with abusing the government and the whole Indian policy. He finds nothing to admire in the whole proceeding except the conduct of Sitting Bull and his guileless children. As a censorious, hyhercritical scold, Mr. Phillips is a splendid success. Like the skeleton at the Roman feast, he sits a quiet admonisher of what it is possible we may all become, in our second-childhood. And now we think of it, why not send Uncle Wendell to the Black Hills to settle the Indian question at once, without any more nonsense? Or is martyrdom one of the "Lost Arts?"

Mr. Phillips is evidently rehearsing for a Mr. Phillips in the work of the may be set up in a moment in any room, and an ample full Bath for an administration and when not in used the say room and when not in used the say room, and when not in used the say room, and when not in used in used the say room, and when not in used in used in any room, and when not in used in used in the say room, and when not in use

The Washington Monument is actual It a Washington Monument is actually going to be finished. No longer will patter patrie turn uneasily on his marble couch, at the ingratitude of his countrymen. On the banks of the Potomac, a large white chimney will soon be reared, that will rivaling grandeur and simplicity the famous shot-tower in Baltimore, and like an clongated darning needle picce the blue empyrean. For a period, since which the memory of man passeth not to the contrary, our public places have been convenient than a Stationary like an elongated darning needle pierce the blue empyrean. For a period, since which the memory of man passeth not to the contrary, our public places have been graced with tiny boxes, through which a narrow slit enticingly persuaded the patriotic clitizen to it.sert the shining dime, or secret choice specimens of mulitated currency, to the end, and for the benefit of an obelisk to the memory of him, who was physically disabled from perpetrating a falshood. And by the way, did it ever occur to you that the juvenile Washingtou was doubless aware that having been detected in mutilating the patronal shrubbery, in flagrante delicto as it were, le would surely be thrashed if he denied it, and his only salvation lied in admitting the corn. Could his boyish instinct have told him less? 'Tis thus our youthful delusions, one by one, rise up and vanish, 'iis thus that a neglectful country, stricken with remorse and overcome with accumulated shame; blended with sporadic patriotism, picks up its unfinished job and prospectively completes it. It may, to the eastern visitor, suggest visions of his own tall chiminies; to the western, an exaggeration of his own grain-elelevators, and to the foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated, cultured foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated, cultured foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated, cultured foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated, cultured foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated, cultured foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated, cultured foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated, cultured foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated, cultured foreigner—well, we dare not think how It will impress the art-educated of underse of the kind of the kind in place of the kind of the kind in place of the kind of the kind in place of the kind of the kind any rate. And after all, "can storted urn or animated bust"? We pause for a reply.

And in the meantime, we venture to inquire in all humility, what has become of Gov. Hendricks? Why this hesitatiou? Down the serried ranks of the Democracy, the faint and whispered query is passing in fast increasing volume, "will he accept?" Mr. Tilden is waiting; Bill Allen is wnndering; the Hon. John Morrissey is hedging his St. Louis bets; the ex-Contederate House is hanging on the ragged edge; the disinterested patriots of the South are pausing to such an extent that we have not heard of a "negrorior" for a week; the whole huge army of the great unwashed are questioning and loudly insisting to know what has become of Uncle Tommy

Perhaps the Cincinnati Commercial supplies the auswer, when it says that "if Tilden comes down to soft-money, there is no hope of New York, and if Hendricks goes over to hard-money, then good byte to Indiana." We once read a thrilling medieval romance by Mark Twain, wherein he worked his characters into such inextricable situations, that despairing of any possible rescue he washed his hands of the whole job, and left his confiding readers to get them out the best way they could. We suspect that Gov. Hendricks is in much the same condition.

Mr. Phillips is evidently rehearsing for a Midsummer Night's comedy, and like a celebrated amateur comedian, insists upon acting the part of the llon. "Oh I will roar, that I will on any man's heart good to hear me; I will roar, that I will make the Duke say 'Let him roar, let him roar again.'"

What "Texas Jack" has to Say on the Cunter Massacre.

Mr. J. B. Omohundro, commonly known as "Texas Jack," is a man of wide and varied experience in scenting and Indian fighting. In conversation with a reporter he advanced a plansible theory of Caster's terrible defeat. He particularly repeals the idea that any imputation should fall apon the courage of General Caster because of his body being found in the extrama rear of the massacred troops. "Texas Jack" accounts for the position of the general's body by supposing him to have been the first to fall, dead or wounded hefore the savage onslaught, as he rode at the body by supposing him to have been the first to fall, dead or wounded before the savage onslanght, as he role at the head of his command near the ford. When he fell, according to this theory, its force we obliged to turn to convey little forthe rear. This movement had the sample of a relevant and the savage for present them hotly. That Custer was killed, or wounded so seriously, in the first of the attack, as to be unable to direct the retreat, is proved by the direction his command followed. He would, beyond question; have retired his men in a single body directly over the path in which he had advanced, and for the purpose of uniting his forces with those of Renc.

The troops, however, really retreated as if panis stricken along the noarest rente which presented itself, and in an entirely new direction. They were soon separated by a high ridge into two parties. The dead found in the canyons thus traversed by the divided troops show how botly they were pursued till reaching the ominonce where they reunited. Further retreat was rendered impossible, and gathering round their wounded leader or his dead body Custer's relatives and his devoted soldiers fighting fell beside bim.

One of Renc's sconts who heard the

The thluese Coolles. The tirst trading in Chinese coolies, on any extended scale, was between China and Cuba, and China and the Chincha islands. From the outset, and np to flie present day, a Chimman either in Cuba or in Pern, is in all os sential matters a slave. In Cuba his condition is really worse than that of the African slave, because by law tho Chinaman can never manumit himself. Once landed, he is a slave for life. Some twelve months ago the Chinese governoeut, after having received reports of the manner in which its subjects were treated in Cuhe, sent a commission of investigation to that island. The Spanish government tried its ut-most to hoodwink the commissioners, but in vain. The scandalous treatment Never had Mrs. James Taylor been of their constrymen in Caba was too patent, and on the return of the com-missioners to Chine their report led the Imperial government to put a stop to the further imnoignation of its subjects to any Spanish colony. The justice of this determination is best proved by the rejection by Spain of a proposition roads by the Chinese authorities that Chinese coosnis should be permitted to reside in Caba, to whom Chinamen he exclaimed, as she stooped over the might present claims of redress for wrongs. CHAMPAGNE MARINO.

But I wish to give a brief description

The vines are planted a foot and a large cities there exists a great number half apart, are let grow to three or three and a half feet high, are staked in June, and, when in full bouring, produce ferty or iffty clusters to a vice. But for the very choicest wine, the vines are pruned back to two feet high or less, and but few clusters of grapes are allowed to a vine. The vines hast from eight to owing to the influence which trees have the vicinity and the vice of the vicinity and the vice of the vicinity and vicinity ana ried—mixed and tempered—the product of three dissimilar vineyards being often united, and sometimes old wine has to be added to make the mixtme just right. For, in some seasons, the wine is better or poorer, strenger or weaker, than in others. When the tests show that it is right, it is drawn off into clear small casks, like the first ones, and stands till the middle of April, when it is put into strong quart bottles, with corks secured by iron clasps, and baid down in the cellar of complete the fermentation. It is here carefully watched, and if the fermentation is too strong it is put into a lower cellar of lower temperature. If the fermentation is too slow it is put in lower cellar of lower temperature. We surther observe that as time progressed and nations became commercially gressed and nations became commercially connected, it became necessary that this medium should be one that was common to all countries, and to subserve this purpose the precious methis were naturally and conveniently determined upon. To atill further facilitate exchange, and at the same time prevent counterfeiting, these metals were observed to be reliable. these metals were ordered to be colned and the function of coining vested in and monopolized by the Governments. Gold and silver became, naturally, of the high-est importance, as mediums of value hecause of their great worth in small bulk, their searcity requiring inbor to produce them. But it must not be forgotten that the selection of these metals as represen-tatives of value, and their conversion by

Thus far we have plain sailing, and were it not for the inherent corruptibility and unscrupitousuess of man, the subject of finance would not trouble the brain of of names would not trouble the brain a child to comprehend. Hut the lapse of time and increase of authority by rulers, brought abuses. A despotie ruler, by reducing the value of a pleee of coin, could reduce the aggregate of his own indehtedness; by increasing its value he could increase his own weight and that of his increase his own wealth and that of his increase his own wealth and that of his favorites. Whether increased or decreased, it benefited himself and impoverished his subjects. It was, and is, roblery in every sease of the word; it followed that the increase of moneyed wealth among the upper classes or the rulers was greater than the production of the commodities of which the column of the commodities of which the column of the commodities of which the columns constructed. was constructed. protection against the increuse or dimi-nution of the volume of either gold or silver. The value of the silver dollar, nntll 1873, was the same as fixed by Conthus sufficiently specific and equitable to satisfy the creditors of the government, as regarded the stability of their investments. Prior to the passage of this act the laws relative to the payment of na-tional securities were silent as to the tional securities were silent as to the klad of currency in which they should be klad of currency in which they should be Monariquot. su important one, and was conducted for several years with marked ahility by our best duancial writers. And this brings us to the unfortunate act of Feb., 1873,

I have at last

The act was one to regulate the inlints feet of which is to demonstize silver and nake gold ulone the standard of value.— In the place of the standard the Trade dollar was authorized, to contain 420 graius of sliver, and be used for export only. The effect of this act is contrac-tion of the very worst kind, in that the contraction is gradual and consequently deceptive. Industry is being rabbed without perceiving it, so slow and yet so certain is the pressure.

I have said that all history teaches n I have said that all history teaches as that whatever the medium employed for the purpose of money, it is invariably one wherein the supply is adequate, steady and diffusive. The necessity for this is too manifest and obvious for explanation. Let us see, then, whether gold is that medium, and why it should be given the preference. In 1801 the world's annual production of gold was in round numbers, $13,000,000; in 1829 it had failen to 5,000,000; in 1822, soon after had fallen to 5,000,000; in 1852, soon after the California discovery, it had risen to 182,500,000; in 1862 it was averaging 102,000,000; in 1865 it had risen tu 135,-109.000,000; in 1855 it had risen to 135, 000,000, but in 1875 it has again dropped to 97,500,000, and tending downwards.—Well may Senator Jones remark, as in his famous speech of the 24th and 25th of April last, "And yet this wildly fluctuating, ruinously unsteady metal, is what the fledglings of political economy, the charintans of monetary conventious, and the numerons other dupes of Lombard street, would divorce from its natural complement, silver, and have for a sole standard of value!"

On the other band, a careful table of standary of value:"

On the other band, a careful table of the annual production of silver from 1800 to date, compiled from various sources and widely jumbished during the present controversy, shows us that the production of silver has been regular, steady and phandaul, sinuly keeping page with and nbandaul, simply keeping pace with population. It was $36,300,000 at the beginning of the century, reaching about 70,000,000 in 1875.

But while this view of the subject is become at the subject is incontrovertible, there is another point yet more important to us as a nation.—

From the latest available statistics we From the latest available statistics we learn that to the world's annual production of gold the United States contributes less than 30 per ceut., while Great Britain supplies 52 1-2 per cent.; but of the annuat used the United States must have more than 50 per cent! thus requiring more by twenty per cent than her annual production, and she must go into the liritish markets to jurchase it. On the other hand we are producing more than 70 per ceut. of the world's annual production of silver, less than one-imit of which is required for our own uses.

Finally comes the vexed question of which is required for our own uses.

Finally comes the vexed question of resumption; and resumption in 1879, as provided by law, means resumption in gold. That we shall not have sufficient gold at that date to warrant resumption, is almost certain. To obtain it we must purchase of Great Britain, and at a ruinous loss. It follows that but two courses are possible—either to postpone resumnare possible—either to postpone resump-tion by repealing the act, as the Tibleu-llendricks letter demands, which is abLOCAL NEWS.

EAST BRAINTREE, Aug. 8, 1876. Mr. Editor :- It is pleasing to note, in hese times of general depression, those occurrences which of themselves may seem of little consequence, but when considered as a part of that which tends to render life pleasant, become objects of interest.

Last Saturday, the very exciting and imusing pastime of a "tub race" came off on the Flax Mills pond, partfelpated n by nearly a score of youths employed in the mills. The family wash tub was alone used on the occasion, all other species of tub being ruled out. The prizes of $2, $1, and 50 cts., voluntarily contributed, were taken by Arthur Henry, John of the youths found that the words of stand on its own bottom," does not apply course laid out, the manner in which they necommonly rich. Bay. Two young men were desirous of going on board their vessel, which lay at anchor a cable length from the shore .-The boat in which they came on shore had been taken away by some of their crew, and unwilling to wait for its return they substituted for it a hogshead tub, although admonished by the bystanders. They were not afraid; "they had done it before and could do it again." Accordingly they placed the "small stores" they had brought to the shore with them, safely in the tub, took their positions, and tatives of value, and their conversion by coluage into money, did not and could not prevent such nucoined metals from being property. In fact, the act of governmental coluage was not strictly necessary to make them money. They are money by the universal assent and sanction of civilized maybed. bering up the side of that vessel out of the water, while a hogshead tub, bottom up, was drifting away astern. The sugar and coffee were mingled with the Atlantic Ocean, but what became of the jug it would be difficult to determine. The moral of this is, that it is not safe for an expert even, to shout until he is safely out of his tub. We have been informed voring, there will be another "race" over the same course. It is a very pleasing feature to notice that at this time, amongst the employees of the Flax Mills, there appears a commendable spirit of reconciliation to their lot. Working but four days in each week, The standard of value is of course the it must of necessity deprive them of many comforts and require the strictest economy, to provide very many of them, who have large families, with even the necessihave large families, with even the necessing ress in 1792—that is, 371 1-4 grains of pure silver, or 412 1-2 grains of standard silver; and by the act of March, 1869, gold or silver coin, or its equivalent, was made a legal tender for all debts, public or private. The equility of values was sufficiently equal to prevent any choice in siderate ideas, and the workman appears ing and fault finding usually accompanying ing quite able. sufficiently equal to prevent any choice lu siderate ideas, and the workman appears the matter, and our financial laws were to realize that the applover is an acquainty to realize that the employer is an equal sufferer with himself. GAZETTE & REPORTER. C. G. EASTERRROOM, Editor.

Mr. EDIJOR.—We notice in your paper of last week, an article by "Poloniua," headed "Notes by the Way-Side," which would appear more in character if the word "therms" were substituted for the word notes. If the intention had been to present a rehash of the old trite scandal and abuse, we do not see how the writer rould have crowded more in so amail a space; for the political inuendoes we care nothing; the day we verily believe has gone by for auch measures to possess any important place in the direction of public affairs, eacept with the low pot-house politician, or those who breathe an atmosphere tainted by corruption, the times ilemand reform; the people are alive to that demand let il come from what party or person it may, and the idea of rform in the civil and political affairs of the country is not lo be ridiculed, or treated with contempt. The pro and con of the outrage at Hamburg has been extensively ventilated in the public prints, and reading and thinking people will not be biased in their judgment by slura and face tious attempts to ridicule any one who may consider that affair as an uncalled for outrage. True manhood will require that truth be accepted though it falls frum the lips of an enemy.

Mr. Wendall Phillipps comes in for a share of "Polonius" Ire. It must indeed be a person of no mean caliber that can attack so eminent a person as Wendall Phillipps, and not find himself at the end sauly at a disadvantage. And the prson who contents himself with "Uncling" and "grannying" such a man, only parades himself before the public in a ridiculous aspect. If Mr. Phillipps Is, to be "grannyed" for anything "dis for the wise and useful thoughts that he has presented the world for the benefit, for a long series of years. For fifty years he has ever been faithful to the cause of humanity and virtue, and it would be no wonder if he should receive the ancers of the depraved and vicious. The oppressed have always found in him sympathising friend, and naturally we should capect to find him appealing for that m "Illoney was not meant fur the mouth of an Ass."
Before "Ivoloinus" stignatizes any one as a hypercritical scold, would it not be well tu review his "Notes by the Way-side," and see if in the broad range lie has taken he can discover anything un his part worthy of the appellation uf "hypercritical Scold," I'erhaps it might be well if "I'olonius," before he again indulges his "furor scribendi;"
would consider well the words of the "Lord Chamberlain" whose name he adopts as his "Nom de

Polonius to Lacrtes.—Give to thy thoughts tongue,
Nor any improportioned thought his act:
Be thus familiar, but by no means vulgar.
The friends thou has, and their adoption thed,
Grapple them to Ihy soul with hooks of steel,
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new hatched, unfledged comrade. Be

Of each new hatched, unnesses commented ware
Of entrance to a quarrel; give every man thine ear,
But few thy voice. Neither a borrower or
A lender be, for loan of tloses both itself and friend,
And borrowing blunts the edge of husbandry;
This above all, to thine ownself be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.
Farewell:—Bly blessing season this on thee.
AGRICOLO.

PLOWERS-AS SYMBOLS IN "THE UN WRITTEN WORD."

The modest daisy, with its yellow tint and green, Uplifting its dew-besprinkled face to greet the more I rom out the grass, which by it side doth lean And with thick mantle clothes the sloping lawn; The pure anemone, that seeks the shade; The violet, the buttercup and star-flowers white Have bloomed through all the life their maker gave Closed not their leaves from early dawn 'lill night. The simple annals of their life soon told, They bud and bloom, then wither to decay; Dropped frum the floral tribute to the spring; Unnoticed, as they came, they pass away. Yet the sweet beauty in the lives of flowers Portrays the glory of the unseen hand; Reflecting ail the purpose and the love of God, They own his power, accomplish his cummand." From the little flower that meekly lifts its head To give its life and fragrance to the wood, Of giving evil might give naught but good. The care that clothes the lily of the field Can keep our life from evil in its way; That life a ceaseless offering to our God Will add new glory to the coming day-AA day not cloudless but devoid of storm, And sunny for the most and pure and warm."

In the morning of that day will bud to bloom Flowers, with beauty's unexcelled and perfect form That day will never close in night And the flowers will still blouns on. Earth's strife no longer heard,

Then shall we cumprehend our Father's love And read his Unwritten Word, GARD. FORTY-SECOND REGIMENT ASSOCIA-TION REUNION .- The Executive Com-

What folly it would be for a merchant to purchase a bill of goods amounting to ten thousand dollars on aix months credit, and at the end of ulnety days procure his notes and mark them up to eleven thousand. Or to be more exact, what business may would buy a bill of goods in silver, and pay at majurity in gold at a premium of ten per cent.? And the United States also solemnly pieces its faith to make provision at the earliest practicable period for the redemption of the United States botes in rosin."

Let us observe that cofn has hut one meaning. Gold is gold; allver is silver, even ulcks! is nickel, but eoin is any plece of metal, hearing the legal impress of the nation, under the laws and acte provided therefor. There is no possible evasion of the term. In fact its main objection came from a gentleman who asserted that under this law the Government could elaim the right to pay its creditors in nickel. I admit that public honor could alone restrain it. But the promise was positive and the obligation imperative. Here, there is evasion; silver, the gold of the capitalist. I shall come later to the inequalities of value.

Now let us see how the public faith thus solemnly plediged was kept. In the act of February 12, 1873, we find that the gold coins of the United States shall be a one dollar piece, a haif eagle, an eagle, and a dime.

"And the silver coins of the United States shall be a trade dollar of 420 grains, Troy; a half dollar, a quarter dollar, and a dime."

"And the silver coins of the United States shall be a trade dollar of 420 grains, Troy; a half dollar in oninal value, for any amount not exceeding five dollars in any one payment."

And to cliuch the matter beyond a peradetic site of sold silver, we find in a subsequent section that the coins either of sold silver or minor coinage.

But I find that a want of space require that this niready long letter should b brought to a close. I have endeavore to compile in as plain a form as possible the situation of this important question from the best authorities, and If I have succeeded in clearly the nist from succeeded lu clearing the mist from hall herealter be issued from the Mini, niner man hope of the denominations, standards and weights somewhat obscure Issue, the object of these letters is necompilished. Answers to Currespondents,

An answer to "Alphabotics", in your last issue, for a remedy for consumption in its first stages, I can recommend by. Perce's "Golden (Metheal Decovery," if taken according to directions, for it has been thoroughly tried in my family, and the results were glerious. "Alphabetical" must not expect one built to do the work—my wife took three buttles before sine could discover any change, but after the third bottle every do so esemed to strengthen the hungs, and now she is well and hearty. If "Alphabetical" will write to me I will get witnesses to the above. Heart II. M. Pattox.

Notes by the Way-Side. Mr. Scott Lord, who introduced that anfortunate Resolution in regard to the right ní auffrage in the Southern States, and lnaisted upon its passaga, thereby "muttered curaes low and deep" from his party leaders, has been reinforced by Secretary Cameron, "by direction of the President," and there is good reason to believe that the apirit of the said Resolution la going to be carried out. And still Mr. Lord la not happy; to be taken so auddenly at his word was not among tha purposes of his buncombe Resolution But beyond question, that letter of Don Cameron's is the neatest joke of the period, althnugh whether it will aet as the pons asinorum to the Democratic leaders, is a mooted queation. She was loadcrew, and all, but she walked away from the Dufferin as though she had a eall to overtake the Madaline, but a quarter an hour ahead, and had she been in racing trim, not a question but she'd have led .-Then up spoke this ancient mariner, "Well, now, if I had any money, I think I'd be ready to bet, that with twenty-five years' experience they can't whip the America yet! " And this reminds us that Gen. Butler will run for Congress in the 7th District, and it is to be hoped he will run to some purpose. Since the House has lost Mr. Blaine, there is none so eminently fitted to lead the Republican minority or majority, as the case may be, as the much abused ex-member from the Essex district. Such a position requires nerve, audaeity, constant wakefulness and more than ordinary ability, all of which Gen. Butier possesses in abundance. Whatever fault may be found with him, inenmpetency is not among them, neither is disloyalty to party or constituency, which, it is to be regretted, is more than can be said of others who have represented the State in the lower House. It requires no ordinary mind to stand up before a hooting mob, such as disgraced the Capitol on the last night before the close of the last session, for instance, and compel their respect through clear audacity and fearlessness. Said a prominent Congressman the other day to the writer, I would sooner see Gen. Butler with all his faults

Mr. 4. M. Johnston. Hour Sir: The Universal Rath Tab I langht of you I used last evening, and found it to mover the recommendations fully. I much prefer it to any form of Rath I have ever seen. The small quantity of what necessary, and its portable form, make it very convenient for use in any part of the house, and the bather will flud it pleasanter in use, I think, than the ordinary fixed hath.—My wife says she catesides the house calarged by the amount of a bith room.

Very realy yours.

During the last two years nearly every siyle has been changed, some by the addition of new stops and frequency with new and striking qualities us frome.

The old forms of cases, with the exception of those of the large pedal urgans, have given way to those for sewer designs, more in accordance with the provailing modern laste.

By the improvements in the made of quantifacture, the cases are the most solidly hulli and tao most perfectly finished specimens of cabinet work now to be seen.

Entirely new styles have been introduced, and as Nos. 6, 7, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 21, full-shed in tastsful pands of mottled walnut, or of jet and gilt.
